I. Introduction

Nowadays, the proliferation of electronic and telecommunication systems requires the RF spectrum monitoring; otherwise it becames no longer possible to assure the correct operation of those devices and systems. Thus, national and international bodies produced rules and regulations to minimize ENW ielae-Optional systems, as a member of the European Union (EU), had to translate into Portuguese law first, in 1992, EMC Directive - 89/336/CEE and in 2007 the new EMC Directive 2004/108/CE of the European Parliament and of the Council to define the governing rules of the EMC in Europe.
