The research methodology in international relations is largely designed for the production of Iranian, Kazakh and Russian independent schools of international relations remains obscure. The Nouaimat effort to include the context of Asian schools makes the analysis in this thesis very practical and effective in terms of policy formulation.

4. Improvements (if there are any) .

Abdalla is a careful and continuous scholar, and this is reflected in the professional quality of the thesis. I think using more statistics and Qualitative methods will definitely be useful.

5. Compliance with the general standards of a doctoral thesis .

This thesis is completely in line with the standards of a doctoral thesis

Academic and general expression.

6. Accredited (not accredited) thesis for defense .

I think a thesis, proposed by Abdalla Al-Nouaimat to obtain a doctorate degree in Oriental Studies and International Relations, entitled " Central Asia and the Caucasus in Iranian Foreign Policy Strategy 1991-2018 (6D020900-Oriental Studies)" is almost becoming more close to defense, and his continuity efforts will accelerate the finishing and accomplishing to his thesis and getting close to defense.

*Please note that Mr. Al-Naimat completed his papers on 9/10/2019 and joined the university on 10/10/2019
